

First off, thank you for purchasing my method. I hope you enjoy it :)

Method Overview

In this method you will learn how to create a successful YouTube channel, you will be creating videos and sharing them with very VERY minimal effort. You might be thinking “Oh no, it’s another one of those spreading ebooks....” Well, you’re wrong! This is COMPLETELY whitehat, ANYONE can do it.

So, Let’s get started :)

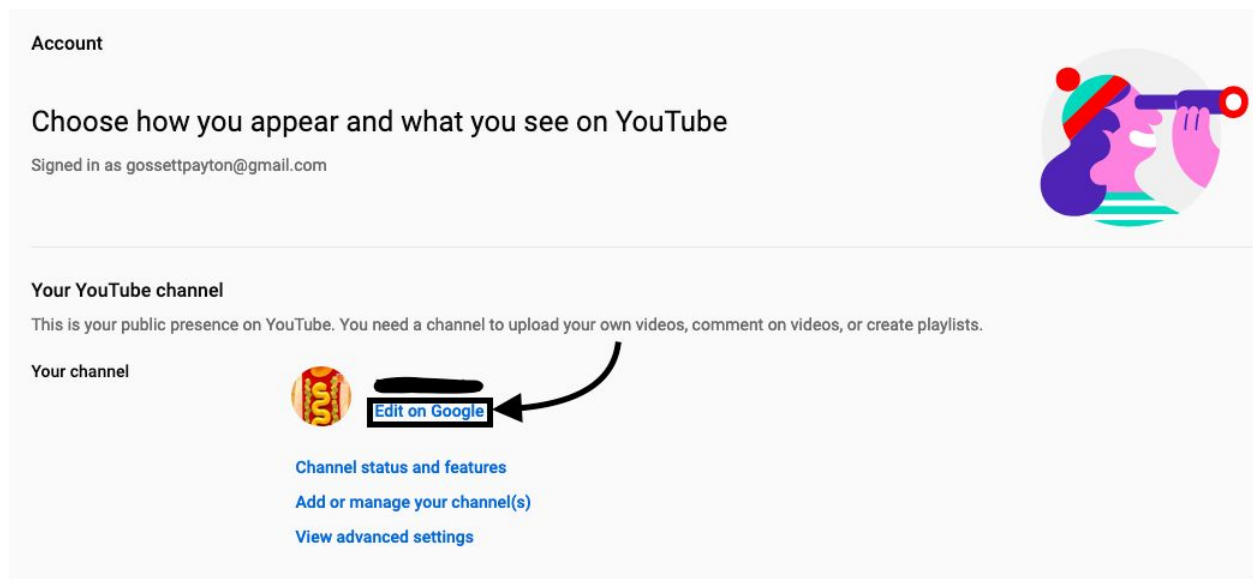

1. YouTube channel
2. Adsense Account
3. Patience
4. Mac/PC/Linux
5. Small/large investment (or no investment, alternate method in step five)

Step One:

First, you're going to need a YouTube channel that is slightly aged. 6-12 months minimum. We all use YouTube, right? I'll even show you how to change your channel name! (due to youtubes algorithms)

Go-to this link: <https://www.youtube.com/account>

Then, click on "Edit on Google"

Got it? Great!

Now that you're on your account edit page, change your name to WHATEVER you'd think fits best.

Learn more'. There are three input fields: 'First' and 'Last' (both containing blacked-out text) and 'Nickname' (empty). Below these is a 'Display my name as:' label followed by a dropdown menu showing a blacked-out name. At the bottom right are 'CANCEL' and 'OK' buttons." data-bbox="114 319 881 716"/>

Changing your name here will change it in all Google products. Learn more

Display my name as:

CANCEL OK

You'll want it to go along the lines of Dash cam/live cam/etc. Since this is the niche we're going after :) (or your own selected niche, up to you!)

Step two:

Now that you've got the channel setup, we need to start compiling some videos. This part is pretty quick and easy!

You're going to want to search around reddit, liveleak, etc. to find DashCam/CCTV/Live video footage. One big thing, you do not want to download content that was recorded by hand or any content that has ANY watermark (minus liveleak default watermark, this is fine.)

<http://www.liveleak.com> <https://www.reddit.com/r/dashcam> and of course google!

Now you'll want to download the videos you find, and save them in a folder on your desktop.

You can use: <https://www.savelink.info/sites/liveleak> for liveleak

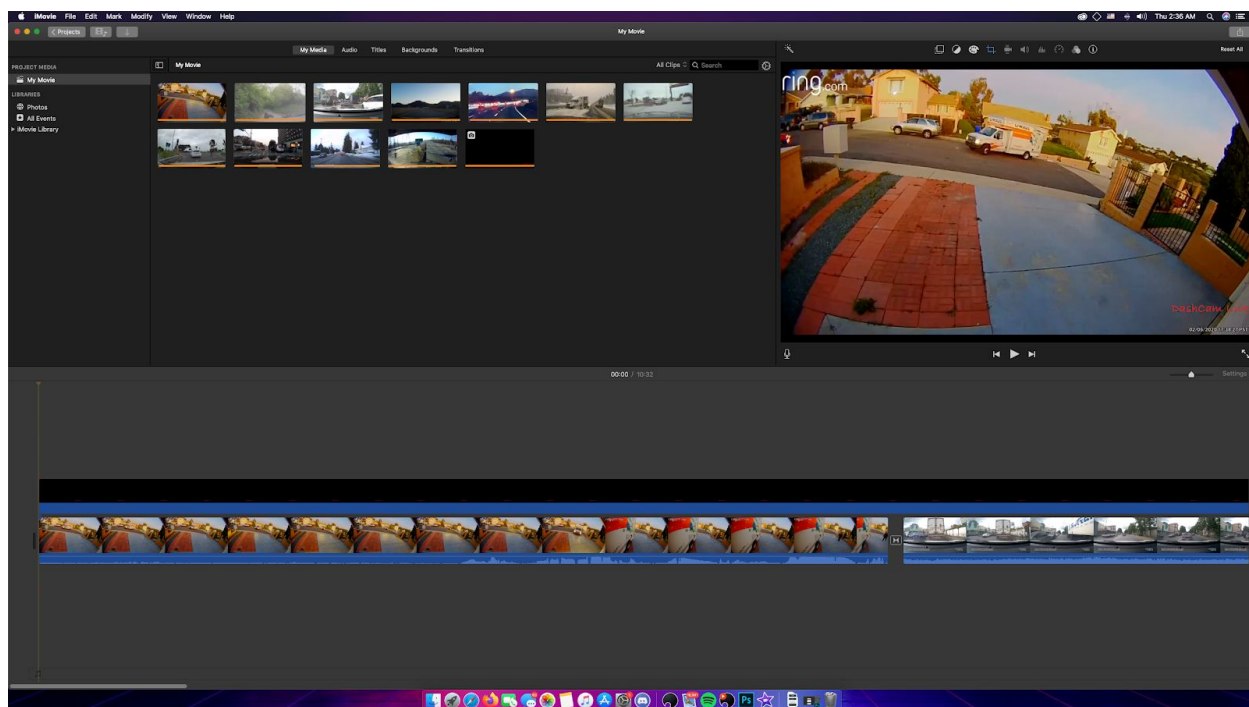

And for Reddit <https://viddit.red/> or <https://redv.co/> (no audio, great if you want to use your own copyright free music. HIGHLY recommended.)

Step three:

Now that you've saved all your videos on your desktop, you're going to want to compile them into one big video. For me, I used iMovie on my Hackintosh. If you're on windows there are PLENTY of free video tools such as <https://shotcut.org/download/> or even windows movie maker! These tools have plenty of guides online for how to use them, so I won't go into too much detail here. The image below is an example of a video I created!

Now, once you've completed this step you should have a video that comes out to something like this: <https://streamable.com/qk4lo>

As you can see with my video, I added a watermark to the bottom right. This is NOT required but if you want to keep your videos to yourself, that's how you do it!

Step four:

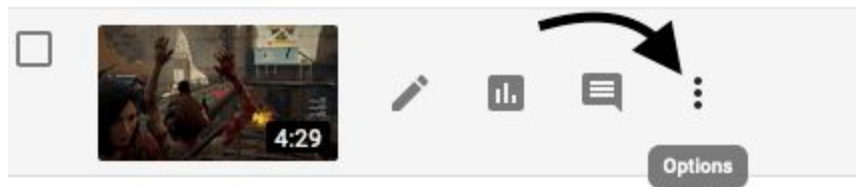

Note: you're going to want to make at least 1-2 videos a week to keep the viewers coming in!

Now that you've set up your channel, you've created your FIRST video (yay! congrats) there are still some more steps required for setup!

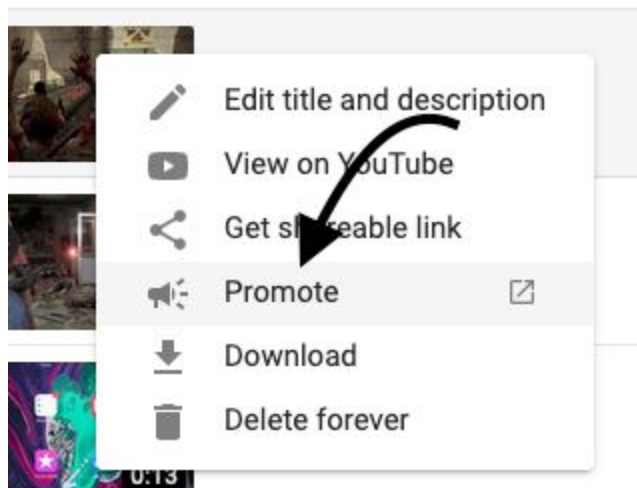

The big one. How the hell am I going to monetize this?

Best advice I can give? PATIENCE. You're going to need to rake in some views first. Once you get the views, you'll be able to turn on monetization for your videos. This can be done inside YouTube's settings.

The BEST way to speed this process up, and NOT get your account banned, is to promote your video! Go to the YouTube Studio, where you can view your uploaded video. Then click the hamburger menu next to your video here:

Once there, click on promote:

This should take you to the google ads page:

You'll promote your video using Google Ads

Like millions of other creators and businesses, you'll use the Google Ads platform to run and manage your video as an ad on YouTube. With video ads, you can expand your audience and pay only for views that count.

You'll now be redirected to sign in to or create a Google Ads account.

HOW YOU'LL SET UP YOUR AD

1. Choose how your ad will appear
2. Choose your target location
3. Select your target audience
4. Set how much you want to spend

Once there, you'll create your promoted video descriptions! This part is easy. And is the BEST way to promote your channel WITHOUT the risk of getting your channel banned for fake views/subscribers. Make sure you use the option I selected in the image below.

Step five:

This is an alternate promotion option, however this is definitely slower. But! It's free!!

Find Facebook groups where you can promote your channel, however do not spam these groups because we don't want you to get removed!

Here are a few of the groups i've found:

<https://www.facebook.com/groups/subforsub/>

<https://www.facebook.com/groups/YoutubeSubscribersOnline/> (biggest, most active group. Over 98k members!

Once your videos start getting views, you'll be gaining more and more subscribers! And before you know it, your channel starts appearing in the recommended tab!!

CONCLUSION:

You'll be trending before you know it..... Here is an example channel, someone doing the EXACT thing I've just taught you! Crazy huh??
